

OUR VALUES

Safety// We are proactive in taking steps to encourage and ensure a culture of safety in all our operations. Taking care of our people is important to us and results in peace of mind across the board—from staff, management, and clients.

Integrity// Integrity is an integral part of all our internal and external relationships. We believe that if we are open and honest in our communications and we carry out all operations with integrity, this will be evident in the work that we produce, our company's profitability, and ongoing customer relationships.

Excellence// Integrity leads to excellence. We believe that skilled tradesmen who are dedicated achieve great results and this is the standard that we seek to uphold. We also believe that through using the right systems to control our process, we can ensure consistent quality management.

Innovation// For us, innovation is the way forward. Building on a foundation of integrity and excellence, we make progress as an innovative company. To do that, we must continually assess and improve at every step and we owe it to our clients in endeavoring to offer the smartest solutions.

We are a passionate team of stainless steel engineering specialists, constantly seeking improvement through innovation. We believe our repeat business and continued growth is testament to our work ethic.

A major contributing factor to the repeatedly high level of finish in our commercial benching, is the polishing process that we use. Our benches are meticulously polished by specialist polishers, which ensure a consistently high level of finish across the board. This sets us apart from other fabricators and is one of the main reasons for our high level of customer satisfaction. Our aim is to exceed expectations: to work with integrity, be proud of the quality of our workmanship, the timeliness of our delivery and maintain our impeccable safety record.

Our commercial kitchen and benching experience includes (but is not limited to):

- Hospitals
- Supermarkets
- Fire Stations
- Marae
- Restaurants and Bars
- Rest Homes

SPECIALISED TRADESPEOPLE

The combined experience and knowledge of the Superior Stainless team is extensive and covers a broad range of engineering expertise. All of our trades staff are fully-trained, time-served industry tradespeople, who are professional and passionate about their work and outputs.

TARANAKI HOSPITAL PROJECT

Superior Stainless were contracted to undertake the benching requirements of the entire new wing of Taranaki Base Hospital. The job posed external problems, which we were able to solve for our client, enabling us to complete the work in less than the expected time-frame, as well as on-budget.

PROJECT MANAGEMENT AND INSTALLATION

We take full ownership at every stage of the process and our point of difference is our commitment to take a job through from conception to completion, from the design and draughting stage, through to fabrication and site installation. Our in-house team work closely with local design and engineering companies, ensuring that all work carried out is correct first time. We take a genuine interest in our clients' projects and seek to form practical, working partnerships from the beginning. We like to see a job well done, and maximising our clients operational up-time.

We are your locally owned and operated company of problem-solving engineers and we won't shy away from unusual requests – if you need a solution, we will endeavor to find you the most effective and efficient answer.
